Civil Defense Unit Organized For Canal Point Community

More than thirty persons received certificates after completion of the twelve hour Civil Defense Adult Education Course in Personal Survival in Disaster, which was conducted by Henry F. Williams of Belle Glade. The course was completed Tuesday night, December 6, which was the fourth night of classes held in the Canal Point School cafeteria.

Mr. Williams was guest speaker at the November meeting of the Canal Point P. T. A., his subject: "Personal Survival in case of atomic attack." The educational course just completed was a direct result of the interesting fashion in which he presented his subject.

Before the group adjourned the final class, they had elected G. L. Lanham to act as Canal Point Civil Defense chairman, instructing him to contact Civil Defense officers in West Palm Beach and advise them that a local chapter is being organized. Those officers will be able to give the local organization official recognition, will conduct advanced courses in Civil Defense and supply materials and equipment necessary for the local group to be able to function according to the plan in the event some type of disaster strikes the community, be it nature's elements on a rampage, civil strife, or an actual atomic attack.

Those persons present were of the opinion that a strong, well informed Civil Defense Chapter may be of more importance in communities such as Canal Point in case of disaster, than in the larger, incorporated areas that have their own police and fire departments. It was pointed out that we are dependent on a relatively few deputy sheriffs whose duty it is to enforce the law in the western portion of our country. In case of wide spread disaster their would be an almost impossible job.

Preparations are being made to conduct classes in first aid. An announcement will be made later as to the date for enrollment for this class.

The Canal Point Lions Club and the Canal Point P. T. A., also, all others in the community who are interested are being requested to give the local Civil Defense group their support. Notice of future meetings and class groups will appear in the local newspapers.

HOME FROM VISIT

Mrs. J. S. Harrington, Sr., returned Saturday to her home in Port Mayaca, following a visit of several weeks with relatives in Monticello and South Georgia. Donald Harrington met his mother in Monticello Saturday and accompanied her home.

CIRCLE TO MEET

Gene Butler Better Following Operation

Gene Butler, Pahokee tonsorial artist, is in Duke hospital at Durham, N. C., where he underwent an operation last Friday, and able to sit up a little today and will be there for another week or ten days.

Several months back Mr. Butler had an operation in which a plastic artery was substituted for an artery that ceased to work. The operation was a success and he got along nicely until a few weeks ago when something slipped and a return trip to Duke was necessary. He was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Butler and Joe Wilder.

Taxes Received Glades Office Bldg.

Stetson O. Sproul's Tax Collecting office at the Glades Office Building did an exceptionally good business during November when taxpayers shelled out $63,000 in order to secure the 4 percent discount for taxes paid in November.

Mrs. Edwina Young, deputy collector said: "Although a great many folks do not know, or have forgotten, that county taxes may be paid at the Glades Office Building, tax payments have been very good during the first discount month of November, to the tune of $63,000."

33 New Precincts Created In County

November record in the office of the Supervisor of Registration shows that 79 voters changed from the Democratic Party to the Republican Party while seven voters converted from the Republican Party to the Democrat Party.

For the month of November records indicate that a total of 228 persons have changed addresses, putting them in new precincts.

An additional 33 precincts have been added to the present 48, making a total of 81 precincts. The rapid growth of Palm Beach County necessitates this change and County Commissioners, in doing so, have designed the changes, keeping in mind future growth.

Making Effort For First Aid Class

Efforts are being made in Canal Point to organize a First Aid Class and volunteers are needed to make the project a success. If 15 persons will show an interest a teacher can be secured. Mrs. Jack Howell has placed boxes at the post office, drug store, Hooks Grocery and Echols Grocery and those interested in the project may drop their name in any one of the boxes.

White Camp May Be Changed Colored

A move is afoot to change the white migratory labor camp in Pahokee to a colored camp to house off-shore imported colored labor. The camp is under the direction of the Pahokee Housing Authority made up of the following members: Bob Apelgren, chairman; James L. Tyson, Jr., vice chairman; Leonard Dobrow, E. L. Pope and Joe Waddell, members.

At present there are between 30 and 40 white families living in the white camp and many of them consider it their year-round home. Where these families will live if the camp is changed into one for colored laborers has not been satisfactorily determined as yet.

Foot Ball Banquet Scheduled Tonite

Tonight in the Pahokee School cafeteria Belle Glade and Pahokee gridiron warriors will be honored with a banquet sponsored by the Lions Clubs of Canal Point, Pahokee, South Bay and Belle Glade.

Officials of the sponsoring organizations have invited Larry "Hank" Slay, athletic director of Dan McCarty High School at Fort Pierce, to make the featured speech of the evening. Commissioner Paul Rardin will act as master of ceremonies.

Each Lion will pay for his own meal and the clubs have enough money left out of their foot ball clinic to pay for the players' meals. The food will be prepared by Mrs. Stanley at the school cafeteria in Pahokee and served by the home economic girls. The menu will consist of roast beef, locally grown sweet corn and beans and other delicacies.

The Pahokee Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the noon luncheon.

The committee will be taken on inspection tours of the sugar growing areas and furnished with plenty of information regarding the industry in this immediate section of Florida.

The Farm Front

by
Doyle C. Jones
Commissioner
Florida
Department of Agriculture

One of the reasons our farmers continue to out-produce the rest of the world is their freedom, under our American system, to engage in any kind of production they choose. If the opportunity for profit exists and his resources and facilities are adequate, an American farmer can adapt his production to the markets that are available to him.

That's a freedom that isn't enjoyed in Russia or China. That's why agriculture in those countries consistently fails to meet the production quotas which their planners have so optimistically published in the past.

When you scan the variety of "farming" activities in Florida today, you'll come across one now and then that's quite unusual even in this state where surprises are frequently encountered.

For example: fishing worms. Few people, I'm sure, are aware that in Florida the business of raising fishing worms has passed the million-dollar-a-year mark. Florida worm farmers are shipping their product to all of the other states and even into Canada. Recent estimates place the total out-of-state shipments of African night crawlers at more than half a Billion worms a year.

You might think the Department of Agriculture would have no interest in the worm business. We have, however, because when trouble occurred at some of our worm farms this past summer, we received an urgent appeal for assistance in determining the cause. Worms at several farms began dying in great numbers. No one knew the reason. One farmer estimated his losses as high as $40,000.

At our Division of Plant Industry in Gainesville, our nematologist, Robert Esser, has been conducting an investigation. He thinks the worm malady may be traced to a virus. Pathologists in other organizations are working on the problem. It may take a few months to find the answer because investigation and research are painstaking tasks that require time and patience.

Modern science, however, has been successful in running down and pin-pointing many maladies that have posed serious threats to crops and livestock. We are fortunate to have available all of the scientific and technological resources of this modern age to help us solve the problems that continually confront us.

There are hazards, of course in any type of farming. A friend told me recently about the experience of a Wisconsin man who was raising trout for market. One summer morning he found a number of dead trout floating on one of his ponds. Each had a small hole in the top of its head.

Day after day he found more dead trout, but though he stayed by his ponds all day long, he was unable to discover what caused the holes. One morning he got up before sunrise and hid in some bushes near the ponds. Just before sunup, several small cranes, or herons, flew in, settled by the ponds and began stabbing at fish with their long, sharp beaks.

Even after they had swallowed some of the fish, the birds kept on stabbing others and finally flew off, leaving a score of dead trout whose heads they had neatly drilled.

The solution: wire netting over the ponds and the wholesale slaughter of trout was ended.

Because frog legs are a delicacy enjoyed by many people, frog farming has been a profitable venture for some Floridians. When I see them in a market or find them listed on a restaurant menu, I'm reminded of the Texan who answered an ad of an eastern firm offering to buy frog skins.

The Texan wired he could supply any quantity up to 100,000. The reply was prompt: "Send them all."

A few days later, one lone frog-skin arrived in a box with this note attached: "Turned out this is all the frog skins there was. The noise sure had me fooled."

IMPORTANT NOTICE FOR PALM BEACH COUNTY VEGETABLE GROWERS:

Now is the time to switch to Phosdrin® Insecticide to maintain complete protection against insects while you are picking and cutting, without creating residue problems.

Powerful Phosdrin Insecticide gives you fast knockdown and kill of aphids, mites, loopers, worms—almost all destructive pests attacking Florida crops.

Then, unlike most other insecticides, Phosdrin disappears, leaves no residue.

Read how Phosdrin can save your crop from late-season insect damage or worse, confiscation. Check the chart below for the intervals that apply to your crops.

If not controlled, a late-season insect build-up can quickly downgrade—or make completely unsalable—vegetable crops such as tomatoes, beans, potatoes, peppers, celery, watermelons, eggplants and most leafy vegetables.

If the infestation is controlled with an insecticide that leaves excess residue on the crop at harvest, the crop is subject to confiscation under the terms of the Miller Amendment to Public Law 518.

Phosdrin solves problem

This is a problem that many growers are solving with Phosdrin Insecticide.

Phosdrin is a powerful new phosphate insecticide that kills the toughest insects fast, usually within a few minutes of application. However, unlike most other insecticides, Phosdrin disappears rapidly after it has done its job—leaves no residue.

That's why Phosdrin can be applied up to 24 hours from harvest on many crops—up to 72 hours from harvest on most others.

NOTE: See table below for the insects Phosdrin controls and how close to harvest it can be used on your crops.

Hard-to-kill insects

Phosdrin solves other problems too. It controls insects such as cabbage loopers and aphids that are becoming harder to kill with older insecticides. That's why more and more growers are making Phosdrin an integral part of their full-season program.

Good mixer

Phosdrin is compatible with most other insecticides and fungicides. And Phosdrin offers a wide margin of safety to the foliage and fruit of insecticide-sensitive crops such as cucumbers and lettuce.

Low cost

Don't be misled by the cost-per pound or gallon of Phosdrin. A little Phosdrin goes a long way. For example, as little as 1/8 to 1/2 of a pound per acre is all it takes to control the toughest insects attacking many vegetables. Dosage rates seldom exceed 1/2 of a pound per acre. In short, on a per acre basis, Phosdrin is very economical.

Where to get Phosdrin

Phosdrin is available from your local insecticide dealer under many well-known brand names. It comes in liquid and dust formulations that are easy to apply with standard application equipment.

Remember, look for the name Phosdrin on the label or in the ingredient statement.

Rev. T. C. O'Steen delivered the dedication message, followed by Communion Service, first to be held in the new Chapel.

If You're Fat, You Should Watch Heart

It's common knowledge today that obesity and heart disease have more than a casual relationship.

The Heart Association of Palm Beach and Martin Counties have advised the public for several years that weight-watching although not a surefire guarantee against heart trouble, is excellent practice for one's general health as well as for the heart's protection.

One of the annoyances that go with overweight is frequent difficulty in breathing. The fatter the individual, the more difficult a job breathing is likely to become. Why?

This is a question that has interested the Heart Association for a long time, both in the interest of discovering how best to treat breathing problems, and to gain new knowledge about the processes through which breathing is controlled.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Kahle and family of Canal Point had as their Friday guests his sister-in-law, Mrs. Don Kahle and sons of Palm City.

Christian Science Group Of Canal Point

The comforting and assuring message of the Beatitudes (Matt. 5) will be featured at Christian Science services Sunday.
 The Lesson-Sermon on the subject "God the Preserver of Man" will consist of Scriptural texts and correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.
 The Golden Text is from Numbers (6): "The Lord bless thee, and keep thee: the Lord make his face shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee: the Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace."
 The concluding passage states: "Divine Love always has met and always will meet every human need. It is not well to imagine that Jesus demonstrated the divine power to heal only for a select number or for a limited period of time, since to all mankind and in every hour, divine Love supplies all good" (Science and Health p. 494).

Cracker Spooner Here For Half A Century

Mrs. Leon Spooner of Pahokee, honored her husband with a "honest-to-goodness" surprise birthday party Saturday night in the Elks Club. Assisting Mrs. Spooner were Mesdames Ruth Dobrow, James W. Vann, Claud Morgan, Lewis Friend, Rupert Mock, Gordon Hillier, Kenneth Hitchcock, Joe Hatton, Jr., R. R. Long, W. D. Howard, and Melvin Spooner.

The occasion was in honor of his 50th birthday anniversary. The theme was carried out in the large birthday cake decorations. Mrs. Jimmy Wilson and Mrs. Sam McKinstry, Jr., served at the reception table and Mrs. Perry Duke presided at the guest book. Cake punch and hors d'oeuvres were served through-out the evening.
 The real surprise of the evening was an out of town visitor, Otis Vinson of Ft. Walton Beach, former resident of Pahokee, high school class-mate, also college class-mate and real close friend of the guest of honor, whom he hadn't seen for the past twenty-five years.

Approximately one hundred and seventy-five guests enjoyed the party and dance, music was furnished by a West Palm Beach Band.

Nancy Harrington Entertains Lions

Miss Nancy Harrington entertained the local Lions Club Monday evening with several renditions on the piano. She served as a substitute for the out-of-town speaker who was unable to attend the meeting. A. R. Harrington, program chairman, introduced his daughter.

The short business session was presided over by the president, J. G. Weeks, and he appointed a committee headed by H. H. Sears, along with Mel Paul and James Gibson to investigate the purchasing of the portable oxymen tent and mask from Mrs. M. F. George.

Plans were made to attend the foot ball banquet in Pahokee Friday night. The meeting was adjourned early to give the members a chance to attend the local Parent Teacher Association meeting.

Junior College Has Many Scholarships

At the close of mid-semester, Palm Beach Junior College has reached a new high in its ever-growing scholarship program. Approximately 75 organizations and individuals have made possible over 90 scholarships and work assistantships to qualified men and women students at the local college.

According to Mrs. Elizabeth Crockett, scholarship chairman, the program has increased from 32 student recipients in the 1959-1960 school year, to last year's end-of-the-year total of 78. Already this year's scholarship monies for this school year total $13,875, with more expected by new donors in time for second semester registration. Presently 30 students are on the scholarship waiting list, with 14 seeking work assistantships.

Christmas Seal Sales Reported

The total of the annual Christmas Seal Campaign at the end of the third week is $23,746.97, according to Doyle Rogers, County Chairman for the Palm Beach County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Mr. Rogers expressed thanks to those who have contributed early and urged all to answer their Christmas Seal letter promptly. Reminders are being prepared for mailing and the processing of incoming mail is being halted temporarily.

"If you should receive a reminder despite the fact you have sent your gift recently, please excuse it and accept our thanks. We hope you will understand there must be a time lag in recording returns, while the gigantic task of sending reminders takes place", Mr. Rogers added.

Totals from towns in the county are as follows: West Palm Beach, $7,505.12; Lake Worth, 4,299.28; Palm Beach, 3,730.50; Belle Glade, 338.50; Pahokee, 183.00; Canal Point, 89.00; South Bay, 19.00; Lake Harbor, 19.00.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Sheppard and daughter, Hazel and her mother, mother, Mrs. Kate Hudson were weekend visitors with relatives in Naples.
